WATER ANALYSIS

- Water quality- chemical, physical and biological characteristics of water- most common standards used to assess water quality relate to health of ecosystems, safety of human drinking water.
- The total dissolved solids (TDS) - measure of the combined content of all inorganic and organic substances – molecular ionized or micro granular suspended form.
- The total suspended solids (TSS) is the dry – weight of particles which are trapped by a filter having a specified pore size.
- The measure of the conductivity of water –specific conductivity-a typical way to monitor and continuously trend the performance of water purification systems.
- Turbidity water quality for human health –turbidity can provide the shelter and food for pathogens-the traditional water treatment processes have the ability to effectively remove turbidity.
- The PH value- measure of solubility and biological ability of chemical constituents such as nutrients and heavy metals-significance of high and low PH value of water-pollution the potential change PH of water.

Effects on laboratory animals - effects on human being – presence of Chloride content-sulphate content – Iron content – Manganese content.
